

The Inn of Cossack the Terrible by Princess Iris
Chapter 5: Unexpected Guests

When I thought I'd be going out, I decided to go down to the pool to take a swim. Sitting underneath the lights & having drinks with some fellow Drules was enough to get my mind off what was bothering me. Thinking about Father's repetitious attacks on Planet Arus & attempts to destroy Voltron, but mostly, Cossack on top of it, had been pretty much giving me a headache. I feel better now that I took a swim & found some distractions.

Just when I thought I felt better, my transmitter starts beeping. I pick it up & to my shock, it was Lotor. I wasn't even paying attention to who it was when I answered & Lotor says, "Iris, it's Lotor, u'r brother." I was startled, due to the fact I was still deep in my thoughts about Cossack. "Oh, brother, I'm sorry. I didn't know it was u. I wasn't paying attention. I'm on my way back to the room from chillin at the pool. How are things at home?" He hadn't heard from me in a week, so he felt it was best he check on me to see if I'm still in the land of the living. At least I don't have a lot of work to go home to next week, cuz he & my cousins had wiped out a good portion of my checklist. He had just gotten thru with visiting some schools on my planet for me to ensure they had the adequate need to operate & students were well-cared for. Lotor said he didn't mind covering for me while I was gone, because being on Aden had been much like vacation for him. He wasn't looking forward to going back home to Doom, cuz Father had a mission for him on Planet Arus. Missions to conquer Arus & destroy Voltron wasn't of his interest, because his objective there is to win the heart of Princess Allura. I told him he should just one day go there & tell her how he really feels, instead of being a jerk to her. On my way to Pueblonia, I flew right past Arus & said how much I wish to visit Arus. Lotor wants so badly to take me to Arus & show me around the planet & it's people. I have yet to meet Captain Keith & Lance, as well as see Princess Allura. He could never find the opportunity, because Father has Haggard accompany him on his trips to Arus, like he don't trust him to fulfill the duties given to him. "How's u'r vacation been? I'm pretty much due for vacation there myself," Lotor asks. I tell him what all I've been doing since I arrived here until he comes in & says, "Sister, from the sound of u'r voice, there's something wrong. I sense something's bothering ya?" My heart had been been pounding the whole time I had spoke with him, but when he asked me that question, my anxiety really kicked in. It was all due to not having yet telling him about where on Pueblonia I was staying & who I've run into throughout the course of my trip. Even though Cossack had been like my second Father & so good to me, I had to do the deed which wasn't easy for me to do. In my mind, I had been praying nothing horrible would come out of it. I had to tell Lotor about Cossack & the trade he was engaged in outside his duties to Doom. Well, things didn't turn out to be bad afterall. Lotor had been rolling so hard on the phone that I thought he would lose his oxygen. He was almost crying in tears from laughing so hard. "Cossack's such a fool to come up with such a conquest. Prostitution business & sex experiments. I can just see him right now. Man, that's some messed up shit," Lotor then adds. He then talks about leaving a cousin in charge, since there's not much left to do & joining me here. The topic about Cossack's Sex Business had seemed rather interesting & he wanted to find out more about it, but then he says he should leave will enough alone. We finished our transmission & I had trailed up to my room. I had spent a good hour in communication with Lotor.

Just when I thought all else was over for the day, another bizarre happening had occurred when I was getting ready to unlock my door. In fact, it was so strange, shocking, & unheard of that I just stood outside my suite & watched what I came across. I never thought I'd see people known to side with the organization my Father & the Empire had been fighting against checking into a Hotel ran by us Drules. I didn't see Nerok working down there, plus the Drule chick working down there either didn't recognize or care who they were. Next door to me, both Princess Romelle & Sven had checked into the room which was on the other side of me. Cossack's living quarters was on my right, with Sven & Romelle on the other. This was all strange. I seen the couple come off the elevator as I was unlocking my door. Then I jumped against the wall, while giving them sneering looks. Even though, I'm Princess Of Doom, they probably don't know me, due to the fact we've never met. I had been scammin on Sven, because he was rather attractive with his looks & fancy accent. Then I turned to Romelle whom I totally held a grudge against for her accusations made toward Lotor & her role in his defeats. I just wanted to rip the hair out of her pretty head, but then my conscience tells me that fighting doesn't solve anything. Hopefully, this will be my chance to make peace with them, even though I despise the Alliance. I look at them & ask, "Hey what u doin here & why would people like yourself be checking into a hotel owned by the one & only Cossack The Terrible?" Sven then gets his gun out & asks, "Who are u & why is it u'r business to know?" I then tell him, "Pleaz put u'r gun away. I don't wanna fight u. I'm just striking up a conversation. I promise I won't tell him u'r here. I know who u are. U'r Sven who use to pilot blue lion & u, u'r Princess Romelle of Planet Pollux. I'm not of any harm to u." Sven then angrily says, "Why should I believe a Drule hybrid such as yourself? How do u know about us? Who are u, woman?" I offer the gentleman a handshake, "I'm Princess Iris, ruler of Planet Aden," but was afraid to go any further on my resume, as I wasn't wishing to see their reaction when I revealed that I was also Princess Of Doom. I should've been more upfront, straightforward, & honest, cuz the truth will come out sooner or later. Romelle for some reason realized & with anger replied, "Wait a minute, u witch, u'r Princess Of Planet Doom. I thought u looked familiar!" That's when all hell broke loose between us. Romelle balled me out about how my Father invaded her planet & made her people into slaves, then my brother being a monster who did horrible things to her family, held her captive on Planet Doom, & threw her into the Pit Of Skulls. I did what I felt the best thing was I had to do; stand my ground & defend my honor as Princess Of a powerful empire, but in a way which centers around my views. "Whatever my Father's done to u'r planet, I've had nothing to do with, besides I resent the evilness he's done to so many. Pleaz don't blame me for any tyrades he's caused u." Sven then goes on about how my brother being more of a monster than my Father & things he did to Romelle. I go onto them about how it was Pollux's fault over things that happened to them & Lotor isn't the person to point fingers at for their losses. I tell them, "Look, I'm sorry about what all happened with u & u'r planet, but my brother only acts on orders. Of course I'm Princess Of Doom & u have a reason to hold that against me, but at the same time, u've never met me & therefore do not know me to come at me with this bullshit. U see a Drule woman, so u act on behalf of a racist Alliance's, by attacking me." Then I hear some mushy conversation coming from Cossack's quarters. A woman saying, "I luv getting up this close to u." Cossack then loudly says, "Yeah, from the moment I seen ya, I knew u were great, but I never thought u'd be this great." I hear the fiasco along with the sounds of sex between Cossack & his booty call. Sven has hold of me in my suite, "Now that I have u here, I shall now inform the Alliance. U'r brother's surrender for u'r release." I look up at him after hearing the interesting exchange of words between Cossack & his girlie, then put my hand over his mouth, "Hey, I could yell for Cossack to come over here, but do not wish for u to be captured, so I think it be best if u shut u'r trap." Then I'm laughing & Romelle asks me about what's so funny & the noise coming from Cossack's.

Damn, I'm in deep shit now, cuz I had kept my word about Cossack's big trade, but I blew that after telling Lotor on the transmitter earlier. Just when that was bad, I now did even worser damage. I let Cossack's business conversation next door be heard, by a couple people who side with the Alliance. Our beefin had calmed down & I, Sven, & Romelle pretty much had resolved our differences. "U'r so much unlike u'r people on Planet Doom. I feel bad over the fact Zarkon & Haggar wants nothing to do with u & u'r his daughter. Even though, I despise u'r brother for everything he's done, I even feel sorry for the fact he's being used like a slave, instead of being treated like a Prince. With the luv & compassion u have, there's hope for our planets to one day be at peace," says Sven. I reply, "Peace is what I want. I've been on the inside & seen what war has done to my people. I've seen many Drule peoples get driven from their home planets due to countless attacks of the greedy Empire's leaders. They've sought refuge on Planet Aden & I work to help restore peace & Doom to it's former glory." Romelle was overjoyed to hear to hear the news about her brother, Avok being alive, but it would take more than seeing proof of that for her to forgive everything Lotor did to her. "I never thought I'd get to see Avok again. U seem rather anxious to meet my cousin, Princess Allura & the Voltron force." I then had to ask something I had been needing to know ever since I seen them step off the elevator. Sven answers, "I & Romelle had been passing thru & decided we'd make a pit stop. We've heard so much about this planet, then seen a hotel named after Cossack. We was curious. These are some luxurious accommodations u have." I laughed & said, "My brother told me all about this place & I seen this hotel too, which I never heard of." I went into telling them about Planet Aden & what I was doing here. Then just when I thought I did enough damage, it became more difficult for me to hold my laugh in. Sven could see I was trying so hard not to laugh & I did something which had me wondering if I had lost my mind. I had only broke my promise to Cossack by telling Lotor, but now I'm probably headed for the Pit Of Skulls. More scantily clad women were outside in the hall carrying on & Cossack greeted them, "There u are my girlies. I've been expecting u. U'r in for a real treat with Cossack tonite. I have all kinds of goodies in here for u." I then hear him spanking each woman, while yelling, "Get in there!" He then told each woman to line up side by side after telling them to strip & began slapping each one of them so hard. One of the women then yelped in pain after Cossack said he was her gynecologist, then supposedly did who knows what.

Sven & Romelle both have their ears u to the wall & are looking around the room in wonderment. They're rolling, but trying so hard to not be loud enough for Cossack to hear them. Sven asks, "What on Arus is happening over there?" I really blew it this time. I had let it out to both Sven & Romelle about the enterprise Cossack had been engaged in outside his Fleet Commanding duties on Doom. They found it rather interesting & hilarious, but Romelle then comes in & says that something needed to be done about it. She goes on about how he's using innocent females for his sex experiments & monetary gain. I begged her, "Pleaz don't. I'm not suppose to tell anybody about his conquest for the Sex Trade. Not even Lotor, whom I've already broke Cossack's promise by telling." Sven angrily asks, "And what's u'r brother doin about it. It doesn't surprise me one bit that he would let something like this go. Next thing u know, he'll join Cossack."

For the remainder of my vacation, I had been pretty much living a double life. One life was hangin out with Cossack & exploring the empire he had been building. Cossack went on about how he was building his own empire with this hotel & contributing to the Sex Industry. Cossack brags, "Cossack's Inn is a 5 star resort hotel. I've been packing in a lot this week & expect even more with the weekend coming up. The next thing I'll do is build a 5 star casino." One night I was invited to attend this Ball with him, where quite a few big wigs were honoring & respecting him for his contribution to Pueblonia's Tourist Industry. I had seen many commercials & even billboards of him holding up his glass of Tyrusian Wine surrounded by a bunch of harem girls saying, "I, Cossack The Terrible always knew that I'd be great, but never this great!" Lotor had just gotten off my transmitter with me & said, "Cossack is one sick fool for doing this. The man's lost his mind." My other life was hanging out & chilling with my new friends, Sven & Romelle, which was something both Lotor & Cossack didn't know about. They were both of great company throughout my trip. I even got an opportunity to speak with Allura & a couple Voltron force members when Romelle & Sven called them on their transmitter. Just when things couldn't get any worse, Sven had let it out to the Voltron force about what Cossack had been doing on Pueblonia, because I guess he needed to explain the reason for his stay at the hotel. It was the biggest laugh the Voltron force had in a while. "Whoever thought Cossack would operate that type of business?" asked Hunk. "I'm surprised over the fact Cossack's just doing this himself. I halfway expected Lotor to assist him with such a scheme, but from what u'r telling me Iris, even he didn't seem to crazy," says Keith. As I'm talking to Keith, my face is practically blushing & Allura tells me, "Iris, I so much look forward to u visiting Arus & praying that we'll one day have peace with our planets." Before getting off the transmitter, Keith then warns Sven & Romelle, "U be careful & use caution when hanging with Princess Iris. Even though she despises Zarkon, just remember how loyal she is to Lotor." Sven replies, "I'm watching her. She hasn't given up any problems." Allura then says, "We'd just hate for u to come up missing, cuz of some trap she sets to lure u into Lotor's clutches." Romelle, "She isn't gonna do that. Besides, Lotor's taken over Aden while she's been here." Oh no!! I've really messed up. Now the Voltron force knows about what Cossack's been doing.

Only a couple days left until I have to head back to Aden & I'm outside chilling with Sven & Romelle. I was pretty excited about getting to meet Princess Allura & the Voltron force. Allura's so sweet, kind, & friendly. I've never met a Princess who was so self-giving & warm-hearted. She was so beautiful & full of light. The energy & vibes she gave off had really touched me. I hoped one day that Lotor would wise up & go about the right way of winning her, cuz she would make a great sister-in-law. Her co-pilots each were full of character & had loveable personalities. Like my brother, Lance is pretty mischievous & has his way with the ladies. Even more now that I got to speak with him, I have even more hots for Commander Keith. I thought him to be absolutely handsome, brave, & one I'm the most interested in getting to know. Yeah, like my brother, Lotor, I'm now pinning after a member of the Voltron force, except I'll be pretty much keeping those feelings to myself.

